ALARM FELT BY WATER USERS OVER APPLICATION FOR MAGPIE DAM SET AT REST BY STATE ENGINEER

Stating that recent application for waters of the Ogden river would in no way affect prior claims, D. D. McKay, of Huntsville, has received a letter from G. P. McGonagle, state engineer, which sets at rest the fears of many water users that the installation of the dam at Magpie canyon would affect their priority of right to the water.

The letter to Mr. McKay: "In the matter of your application, File No. 8225, calling for 25,000 acre-feet of water from the south fork of the Ogden river, the attention of this office has been called to the fact that the notice to water users now being published in the Ogden Standard relative to this application, has caused considerable consternation among the prior water users for the reason that the notice does not state that you intend to appropriate the surplus water of said river.

"The irrigation law makes no distinction between surplus water and the normal flow of streams. As far as this office is concerned, water is either appropriated or unappropriated water and the notice to water users relative to the appropriation of water must relate to the unappropriated water in the source of supply. No applications granted by this office can in any way interfere with prior rights, and an applicant whose application has been granted by the state engineer has only the right to appropriate water from the source of supply mentioned in his application after all prior rights have been satisfied. Therefore, by virtue of your application you will only have the right to appropriate water from the South Fork of the Ogden river at such times when all prior rights are satisfied and when the water is going to waste which you could put to a beneficial use by virtue of your application. This in effect means the surplus water in Ogden river as the prior rights take all the normal flow, but for reasons heretofore stated the notice to water users could not specify such to be the case.

"Hoping this explanation will clarify matters relative to your application, I am,

G. P. MCGONAGLE,
"State Engineer."

GOVERNMENT HAS NEW METHOD OF DISCOVERING INCOME TAX EVADERS; WEBER COUNTY WHO'S WHO POSTED

For the first time since thousands of good Americans began paying out hard cash in the form of income tax, Uncle Sam has issued an official "Who's Who."

The income tax blue book for Weber county made its appearance at the postoffice today in the form of a list issued by David C. Dunbar, collector of internal revenue, Salt Lake City, and is posted on a bulletin board for public inspection.

The list includes every individual and corporation in the county filing an income tax return for the calendar year 1918. It was not until the revenue act of 1918 became a law that provision was made for giving the general public any information as to who were and who were not paying federal income tax.

The posting of the complete list for 1918 makes it possible for any person to ascertain whether his next door neighbor or the mysterious person in the next block did his patriotic duty by filing an income tax return. The exposure of publicly announcing income taxpayers is being watched with interest by representatives of the internal revenue service.

Lists covering 1918 income taxpayers for Weber, Davis and Morgan counties were distributed from the local division office of the revenue service in room 201, federal building. For Weber county the list shows that approximately 1800 individuals and corporations in Ogden city filed return for 1918, while the number in the county outside of the city is only 112.

For the state Salt Lake county heads the list of income taxpayers, Carbon county is second, and Weber county third.

OGDEN MAN ASSERTS HE WAS PIONEER OF RAILROAD

Committee Gives Names of Veterans Building Old Utah Central

Horatio Hancock of Ogden claims he was conductor on the train of the Utah Central railroad when it first came into Salt Lake, according to a letter just received by Andrew Jensen, president of the Utah State Historical society and a member of the committee arranging the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the event.

Mr. Hancock's letter reads in part as follows:

"Having read that Walter C. Brown claims to be the first and oldest passenger conductor living, who worked on the Utah Central, I wish to state that I coupled the first car to the engine named Black Hawk at Ogden and was conductor on the construction train day after day as we made progress to Salt Lake. Robert Butt was engineer and William Jeffs, Sr., fireman of the engine, and Albert Gray, brakeman, on January 9, 1870, when the last three miles of track were laid.

"The last night before the completion of the road we came back to Ogden and stayed up part of the night decorating the engine, Black Hawk, with flags and ribbons, preparatory for the celebration January 10. We coupled on four coaches, which made up the train, with the Union Pacific officers and business men of Ogden on board, of which I was conductor.

"So I claim to be the pioneer and senior conductor on the Utah Central railroad. I wish to state that the second section train was piloted by Charles Maynard as engineer, and John Levett as conductor, and carried the employees who worked on the road. As soon as the road was in running order I was conductor on the passenger train running between Salt Lake and Ogden."

The committee in charge of the jubilee celebration to be held in Salt Lake January 10, in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the coming of the locomotive to Salt Lake, has prepared a list of fifty names of persons who will be guests of honor at the celebration. The committee is investigating in other cases that have been called to its attention in an effort to establish their connection with the construction of the road.

Pershing Sends Word He Will Visit Ogden; Plan for Reception

General John J. Pershing will be in Ogden on the morning of Friday, January 16, according to a telegram received from Col. Marshall, of his staff this morning. The telegram was received by President Warren L. Wattis, of the Weber club, in response to a wire he sent on Dec. 26, urging General Pershing to consider the invitation that had been previously sent by the American Legion and the Boy Scouts.

The invitation that went from Mr. Wattis was one supplementing the previous ones sent and it is not the intention of the Weber club or the Ogden Chamber of Commerce to in any way interfere with the plans of the American Legion in carrying out the program of entertainment during the stay of the general in Ogden. Mr. Wattis stated that the invitation had been sent in hopes that the influence of the two leading Ogden business men's organization would have a little more weight in determining the general to stop over.

Telegram to Pershing.
Following is the telegram sent to the general at Lincoln:

"General John J. Pershing,
Lincoln, Nebraska.

"In behalf Chamber of Commerce and its affiliated organization, the Weber Club, I supplement invitations of the American Legion and the Boy Scouts that you arrange to stop over in Ogden on occasion of your visit to Utah and permit citizens of this community to express appreciation of your service and through you, to express appreciation of work of those you commanded."

"WARREN L. WATTIS, Pres."

In response, Mr. Wattis received the following wire this morning:

"General Pershing with nine staff officers will arrive at Ogden 10:05 morning January 16, leaving 10:40 a. m. Will be glad of opportunity to meet citizens of Ogden and take part in such program as the short stay of thirty-five minutes will allow. Please wire me program at Fort Leavenworth, January 9th."
"Colonel, A. D. C."

It will be noted that the time in Ogden is but thirty-five minutes. Plans are under way at present to arrange for a longer stay. As General Pershing is scheduled to remain in Salt Lake City all day and evening, it is thought that arrangements can be made with the American Legion of the capital city, which has the program in hand for General Pershing's stay there to give Ogden another hour or two of the time allotted to Salt Lake. In that event, Ogden will be in a position to properly entertain the distinguished visitor.

Captain J. Ray Ward, chairman of the committee to arrange for the visit of General Pershing stated that all possible will be done to extend the time and that Mr. Wattis has promised the co-operation of the two Ogden organizations in working with the Salt Lake committee.

President Wattis stated that everything that could be done to co-operate with the Legion would be done. However, he stated, the entire plans for the event will be left in the hands of the Legion and the Weber club and Chamber of Commerce will merely lend their aid and influence to help carry out the program.

OGDEN ASSURED OF A REX BEACH'S GREAT PLACE UPON LONG AIRPLANE LINE NORTHLAND DRAMA AT OGDEN SUNDAY

Ogden was today practically assured of a landing field in the proposed Kansas City to San Francisco airline which will be established in the early spring by two Denver capitalists, E. Burns Ellison and Howard Bell, both connected with Carl Johnson, former army flyer.

Both men arrived in Ogden this morning and spent a half hour prior to departing for Mather field, Sacramento, Cal., where they will endeavor to secure the services of five professional flyers for their line which they say will operate planes westward during the latter part of March.

E. Burns Ellison, representing the interests of his father, H. E. Ellison, is vice president of the Denver corporation and stated this morning that Ogden had been practically assured of a landing field for their planes.

"We have six planes at our service in Denver at this time which will be used for passenger ships during the spring and summer of 1920," he said. "While these planes are but three passenger planes, we expect to place two of them in Ogden, two in Denver and two in San Francisco for general city flying purposes."

"Our new planes when completed by the Curtiss factory will carry seven passengers including a crew of three men. They will be listed under the title, 'Curtiss Eagle' and will be rated with the classiest planes in the west, having every modern convenience."

They were married in Stockholm, Sweden, December 14, 1905.

The two were married in Ogden, October 21, 1919.

In "The Girl from Outside," a new Rex Beach production made for Goldwyn, which comes to the Ogden theater commencing Sunday, a lot of good clean comedy is to be found.

Deaf Mike, played cleverly by Walter MacNamara, is a character that creates a number of amusing situations. He hears just what he wants to, and in one instance June secures an ear trumpet for him, and he has much fun in interpreting the remarks of characters in the play—but when the young girl announces her engagement, he blurts out "What's that?" giving away the secret of his "deafness." There are many amusing touches, which Director Reginal Barker has cleverly out.
